The Trapped Tradie Escape Plan

How to go from £4K/month on the tools to £10K/month closing high-ticket sales calls. Without an office, a degree, or a network.

WHO THIS IS FOR

This is for the bloke who's been on the tools for 3, 5, 10 years and just looked at his bank account this morning and thought "is this it?"

You're not lazy. You work harder than 95% of people. You're up before the sun, hands chewed up by your trade, knackered by Friday. You earn alright money for someone your age. £3K, £4K, maybe £6K a month if you're FIFO.

But you know two things in your bones.

One. The money's capped. Even the foreman doesn't earn what you want to earn. Even the boss took 15 years to get there. You don't have 15 years to wait.

Two. Your body's already on borrowed time. The knees, the back, the wrist that doesn't fully bend anymore. Every tradie over 45 has the same look. You don't want that look.

You're not in this guide because you hate working. You're here because you've worked out the vehicle is wrong. You need something portable, uncapped, and that you can do from your phone in Bali if you want to.

This guide shows you what that is and how to get there in 90 days.

THE FOUR TRUTHS NOBODY TELLS YOU ABOUT LEAVING THE TRADES

Truth 1. The trades don't owe you anything.

The industry took your twenties and gave you a wage in return. That was the deal. There's no loyalty bonus for sticking around. No one is coming to promote you out of the physical work. You leave when you leave.

Truth 2. The skills you already have are worth more than you think.

Tradies make the best closers. I've worked with 100+ closers over the last year and a big chunk of my top earners came from trades. Why? You already know how to show up on time, follow a process, talk to clients on site, handle objections, and ask for the money at the end of a job. That's 80% of sales already.

Truth 3. You don't need to "start over."

The closers I work with don't go back to school. They don't do a 6-month course. They get paired with an existing offer, learn the script in 2 weeks, get on calls in week 3, and earn their first commission in week 4 to 6. The runway is shorter than anyone tells you.

Truth 4. The first £5K month feels like a bigger jump than going from £5K to £10K.

Everyone obsesses over the £10K mark. The actual hard part is the first £5K because it's where you stop being a tradie who's "trying sales" and become a closer who happens to have a trade background. After that the income scales fast because you're already in the room.

WHY HIGH-TICKET CLOSING IS THE MOVE

Out of every "make money online" path you've seen on Instagram, this is the one that suits your wiring.

You don't need to build an audience. You don't need to make content. You don't need investors, inventory, software, or a website. You don't need a degree.

You need a phone, a quiet room, headphones, and the ability to have a real conversation with a stranger about money.

The job is simple. A coach, agency, or info-product business runs ads. The ads send leads to a calendar. You take the call, walk them through their situation, present the offer, handle objections, and close. You get paid 10% to 20% of the deal size. Deals range from £2K to £15K. Math works out fast.

Real numbers from my placements last year:

- Average closer pay in month 3: £5,200
- Average closer pay in month 6: £8,400
- Top 10% in month 6: £15,000+
- Average hours worked per week: 30 to 40
- Average location: anywhere with WiFi

This isn't a side hustle. It's a job. The only difference is you do it from a hotel room in Lisbon if you want to.

THE INCOME REPLACEMENT MATH

Let's stop being vague. Here's exactly what the switch looks like.

Current situation (typical tradie reading this)

- Income: £4,000/month before tax
- Hours: 45 to 60 per week
- Location: site, ute, depot
- Holiday: 4 weeks/year if you're lucky
- Cap: £6K to £8K/month at the top of your trade

Month 1 as a closer (training + first 3 weeks on calls)

- Income: £0 to £1,500 (commission depends on lead flow)
- Hours: 20 to 25 (training plus part-time calls)
- Location: home or wherever
- Mindset: "Holy shit this is harder than I thought"

Month 2

- Income: £2,000 to £4,500
- Hours: 30
- You've taken 60+ calls. You know the script. You're closing 15 to 25% of qualified leads.

Month 3

- Income: £5,000 to £8,000
- Hours: 35
- You're full-time. You've replaced your trade income working from your bedroom.

Month 6

- Income: £8,000 to £15,000
- Hours: 40
- You're being headhunted by other offers. You can pick your clients.

The math works because closing isn't paid per hour. It's paid per outcome. One good day on the phone can pay for two weeks on the tools.

THE 90-DAY ESCAPE PLAN, WEEK BY WEEK

Weeks 1-2: Foundation

- Watch the Cowboy Closers free training (the one we sent you in the welcome email).
- Learn the universal high-ticket script (objection sections, discovery sections, close).
- Set up your home environment: quiet room, headset, second monitor if you can.
- Practice with a mate. Record yourself. Listen back. Cringe. Improve.

Weeks 3-4: Get Placed

- Apply to 5 to 10 offers you'd actually want to close for (info coaches, agency owners, fitness coaches, online educators in the £3K to £10K product range).
- Use the cold DM scripts from the Swipe File (the other free thing you'll get from me) to skip the application process and go straight to the owner.
- Take 2 to 3 paid test calls.
- Sign with one offer as your primary, one as backup.

Weeks 5-8: Get Paid

- Take 5 to 15 calls per day.
- Track every dial, every connection, every set, every close.
- Review your own call recordings every Sunday.
- Get on a sales manager's weekly review call if your offer has one.
- First commission deposit usually lands in week 5 or 6.

Weeks 9-12: Stack

- Your conversion rate is now 18 to 25%.
- You're consistent on income.
- You either hand in your notice or take a sabbatical.
- You start to think about your second offer or moving to a higher AOV product.

That's the plan. Nothing fancy. Just the sequence.

THE FIVE SKILLS YOU ACTUALLY NEED

Forget what you've heard about sales. You don't need a personality transplant. You don't need to be a smooth-talking American. You need five specific skills and you can learn each one in 2-3 weeks.

1. Discovery. Asking the right questions to find someone's real pain. Not their surface complaint. The thing under it.

2. Listening. Actually shutting up after you ask. Most blokes new to sales talk too much because silence feels weird. Get comfortable with silence. It does the work.

3. The Pitch. Presenting the offer in a way that ties directly to what they just told you. Not reading a script. Translating.

4. Objection Handling. Knowing what to say when they hit you with "I need to think about it" or "I'll talk to my partner" or "I don't have the money right now." There are only 7 main objections. You learn the responses once.

5. Asking for the Money. This is where 80% of new closers freeze. You have to learn to comfortably say "Are you in?" without flinching. It's a muscle. You build it by doing reps.

That's it. Five skills. 90 days. No degree.

WHERE TO FIND YOUR FIRST CLOSING ROLE

There are three places closing roles live.

One. Job boards (slow, low quality). Indeed, Glassdoor, Closify, Sales Job Board. You'll find work but the offers are usually low ticket and the competition is fierce.

Two. Cold outreach to offer owners (fast, high quality). This is what I teach. You identify 50 to 100 coaches/agencies/info businesses that have ads running. You DM the founder with a specific pitch. You skip the queue.

Three. Network referrals (best). Once you're in the Cowboy Closers community, placements come from inside. Founders we work with come to us when they need closers. You don't apply, you get tapped.

Most closers start with option 2, then graduate to option 3 once they're in the community.

THE INTERVIEW (HOW NOT TO BLOW IT)

When a founder takes a call with you, they're not looking for the slickest pitch. They're looking for:

- Can this person actually have a conversation
- Do they understand my offer
- Will they show up consistently
- Are they coachable

Show up with:

- One-page sheet on the offer (what it is, who buys it, average deal size)
- Two questions about their current closer team and what's working
- A clear ask: "I'd like a 2-week paid trial. If I hit X close rate, I get the full role."
- No begging. No "I'm new but I'm hungry." Show up like a closer, not a candidate.

The blokes who get hired in week 1 do this. The blokes who don't get hired until month 3 don't.

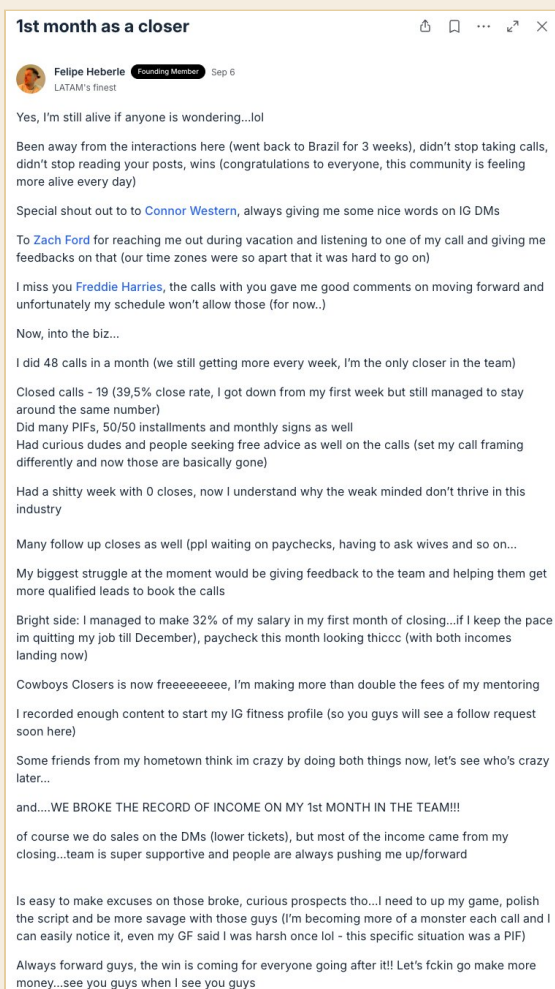

REAL CASE STUDIES

These aren't composite stories or hand-picked outliers. These are real closers in the Cowboy Closers community. Names, numbers, screenshots, all real.

Olla ladies and lads,

Just a reminder to take the time to set your foundations (mindset, vision and intentional action) & fucking persevere.

Started with a new company, a couple tours down and landed myself my first 20k deal!

When I first messaged Connor I told him I wanted to continue the lifestyle living overseas provides me and make some cash along the way. Fast forward not even 5 months and here we are. New country, new apartment (work paid for) and even more fire to make the last six months of this year the best yet.

Progress isn't linear and if it is you aren't taking enough risk or learning enough - boring.

You got to pay to play.

Giddy the fuck up.

Hey y'all! 🙌

Haven't been super active in here lately — been deep in the trenches.

Just jumped into my first offer after Connor gave me the push I needed to drop the imposter syndrome and finally bet on myself.

✅ First call — closed a PIF.

🔥 Now on day 4 — and I've closed every day so far.

📝 One of my calls got reviewed by my manager + the AI — scored 9/10 across the board.

Feeling incredibly grateful. Especially for Connor Western — even before I joined his program, he'd hop on calls with me, help me roleplay, and completely shifted how I approached sales. One of those roleplays honestly rewired how I show up.

Online sales is wild, man. There is so much money on the table — and it's yours if you're willing to show up, put in the reps, and stay coachable.

Hard work + Mentorship + Time = Excellence.

Let's keep climbing. 🙌

THE THREE WAYS THIS GOES WRONG

I won't sell you a fairytale. Here's where blokes blow themselves up.

One. They don't actually do the reps. They watch the training. They read the script. They never get on enough calls. You need 60+ calls to be competent and 200+ to be good. There's no way around the volume.

Two. They sign with a shit offer. Bad offer = bad close rate = no commission = quit. Pick offers with: solid product, real testimonials, AOV between £3K and £15K, owner who answers Slack.

Three. They burn out trying to do both at once. Some blokes try to keep their trade job and do calls at night. It works for 4 weeks then they crack. Better to take 30 to 60 days of unpaid leave or save 3 months of runway and go all in.

If you avoid these three, the plan works.

THE INCOME TRAJECTORY (REAL NUMBERS)

MONTH	MEDIAN INCOME (COWBOY CLOSERS STUDENTS FROM TRADES)
1	£750
2	£2,800
3	£5,400
4	£7,200
5	£8,600
6	£9,800
9	£12,200
12	£14,500

This isn't theoretical. It's the real range across the tradies we've trained, your numbers will vary. The top 10% double these numbers.

A FAIR NOTE

This table is what's possible based on the trajectory of real closers in the community, not a guarantee, and not an average. Your numbers depend entirely on the offer you work with, the reps you put in, and how coachable you are. Some closers hit these numbers faster. Some never do. Use it as a target, not a promise.

THE PERSONAL SIDE (WHAT NOBODY WARNS YOU ABOUT)

When you make the switch a few things change that have nothing to do with money.

Your old mates stop getting it. They'll take the piss for "selling stuff online." Most of them will come around when they see your truck disappear and you turn up to the pub from Lisbon.

Your missus will be skeptical for the first 30 days. Show her the calendar bookings and the first commission deposit and that goes away.

You'll have more energy. You'll lift more in the gym because you're not destroyed at 5pm. You'll start reading. You'll start travelling. Your skin will be better because you're not in dust all day.

This is the actual reason you're doing it. Not the money. The body, the time, the freedom.

WHAT TO DO RIGHT NOW (THIS WEEK)

You don't need to enrol in anything. You don't need to spend money. You need to take three steps this week.

Step 1. Watch a sales call recording online. Search "high ticket closing call breakdown" on YouTube. Watch 3 of them all the way through. See what closing actually looks like.

Step 2. Pick one offer you'd be excited to close for. Could be a fitness coach, a real estate course, a sales coach, a personal brand mentor. Doesn't matter. Just pick one and study them. What do they sell. Who do they sell to. What's the price.

Step 3. Have one conversation about money. Today. With anyone. Ask someone what they'd pay for X. Negotiate something at a market. Get a refund from a phone bill. Get the muscle moving.

That's it for this week. Three actions. No drama.
