

VOL. I · ISSUE 05 · THE 5-DAY

THE 5-DAY COURSE · FROM CAPPED TO CLOSING

From Capped to Closing

The Wolf of South East Asia

A five-day course on how to go from a capped income (trades, salary, freelance) to closing high-ticket sales calls from anywhere in the world, working 30 to 40 hours a week. One lesson a day. One big idea. One specific action step.

Connor Western

The Wolf of South East Asia

Founder, Cowboy Closers

IF THIS RESONATES

If you read this and feel something click, the kind of click that says this is the move, apply to work with us at apply.cowboyclosers.com. We'll see if you're a fit, and if you are, we'll show you exactly how the rest of it works.

From capped to closing, in five days of reading

This is a five-day course on how to escape a capped income vehicle (trades, salary, freelance) and move into high-ticket sales closing, a job you can do from anywhere with a laptop and a quiet room, that pays £5K to £15K+ a month within six months if you put in the reps.

Over the next five emails I'll walk you through:

1. Why you're stuck where you are, and why it has nothing to do with how hard you work.
2. What the new vehicle actually is, high-ticket closing, demystified.
3. What a closer's real day looks like, not the Instagram version. Real numbers from a real student.
4. The five skills you need to learn, and how long each one takes.
5. What to do from here, three honest paths, no upsell.

There's only one rule. Read each lesson all the way through. Don't skim.

I've watched twenty-one sales calls in the last 30 days. The people who said "yeah I read your stuff but..." are the ones who didn't read it. The ones who said "you mentioned the LATAM bloke who hit 39% close rate in his first month and that hit me" are the ones who actually engaged. Be in the second group.

You're not capped because you're not good enough. You're capped because of the vehicle.

Below is the full five-day course printed in order. You can read it in one sitting or one day at a time. Either way, the action steps at the end of each lesson matter more than the words.

Day 0: How to go from capped to closing in 90 days

Here's what the next 5 days will give you.

Over the next five days I'm going to walk you through the move from where you probably are right now (capped income, time-poor, body or brain getting smashed) to where most of my closers end up within six months: £5K to £15K+ a month closing high-ticket sales calls, working 30 to 40 hours a week, from anywhere with WiFi.

Here's the five lessons that are coming:

- Day 1: Why you're capped (and why it's not your fault).
- Day 2: What a closer's real day actually looks like. Real student. Real numbers.
- Day 3: The five skills you need to learn, and how long each one takes.
- Day 4: How to get your first closing role (without applying to job boards).
- Day 5: Where to from here. Three honest paths. No hard sell.

There's only one rule. Read each lesson all the way through. Don't skim.

I've watched 21 sales calls in the last 30 days. People who said "yeah I read your stuff but..." are the ones who didn't read it. People who said "you mentioned the LATAM bloke who hit 39% close rate in his first month and that hit me" are the ones who actually engaged. Be in the second group.

Tomorrow's lesson is the most important one of the five. It's the one that flips how you see the next 12 months of your career.

For now, three quick things.

One. Follow me on Instagram if you haven't: @connorwestern_. I post the real-time playbook 5x a week.

Two. If you want to skip the queue and apply for placement now, the link is connorwestern.com/apply. Don't apply unless you're ready to move in the next 30 days.

Three. DM me on Instagram (@connorwestern_) and tell me what you're doing right now for work. I read every reply. It helps me make the next lessons actually useful for you.

Connor

The vehicle problem

You're not stuck because you're not good enough.

Yesterday I asked you to DM me what you're currently doing for work. If you did, cheers. If you didn't, no drama, but the people who do this stuff actively are the ones who move.

Today's lesson is the one that flips most people.

There's a sentence I've used on Instagram a hundred times. It's the one that gets the most DMs every single time I post it.

"You're not capped because you're not good enough. You're capped because of the vehicle."

Let me explain what that means.

You're probably in one of three vehicles right now.

Vehicle 1. The trades. Sparky, chippy, plumber, FIFO, farm work, builder. You earn alright. £3K to £6K a month. But the income ceiling in your trade is set by physics. You can only swing a hammer so many hours. The body breaks. The hours can't multiply.

Vehicle 2. Stuck employee. Salesman, account manager, engineer, ops, retail manager, teacher. You earn a salary. £2K to £5K a month. The income ceiling is set by HR. Even if you 10x your output, your manager won't 10x your pay.

Vehicle 3. Self-employed but stuck. Solo consultant, freelancer, small business owner, gym owner. You earn what you can hustle. £2K to £8K. The income ceiling is your own time, energy, and ability to sell.

All three vehicles have one thing in common. The cap isn't your effort. The cap is structural.

Here's the bit that matters.

If you're in any of those three vehicles working hard and not moving, you don't need to "work harder." You need to change vehicles. You're driving a Corolla and getting frustrated it can't do 200 mph. The car isn't broken. It's the wrong car.

The vehicle I'm going to teach you over the next 3 days is high-ticket closing. It's a vehicle where:

- Income is uncapped (commission only, % of sale)
- Hours are 30 to 40 per week
- Location is anywhere with WiFi
- Skill compounds (every call makes you better)

- It can't be automated (AI doesn't close £10K deals)

This isn't theory. I've worked with 100+ closers since launching Cowboy Closers. Eight out of ten of my top earners came from one of those three vehicles you're sitting in.

Tomorrow I'm going to show you what the day-to-day actually looks like. Because most of what you've seen on Instagram about being a "remote closer" is bullshit, and I want to give you the unfiltered version.

Quick action step today. DM me the vehicle you're in (1, 2, or 3) and one sentence on why you want out. Takes 30 seconds. I read every one.

Connor

What a closer's day actually looks like

No yacht. No Lambo. Just the real numbers.

Yesterday I told you the cap is structural. Today I'm going to show you what the day looks like in the vehicle I want to put you in.

I'm going to walk you through one of my closer's actual Tuesdays last week. Real person. Real numbers. Real day.

His name's Felipe. He's based out of Brazil. Before Cowboy Closers he was working a corporate gig in São Paulo and mentoring people on the side. He joined the community earlier this year and started taking calls within weeks.

Here's a snapshot of his first month.

Month one. 48 calls taken in his first month as a closer. Yes, you read that right, 48 calls in 30 days, as the only closer on the team.

Closes. 19 of those 48 calls closed. A 39.5% close rate in his first month. PIFs. Half-and-half splits. Monthly retainers. He took whatever the offer ran.

Best week. 37% close rate in week one. Three days later: a $3,300 AUD CC day. A week after that: $5,600 AUD collected in one morning. Posted in the WhatsApp group at 4pm: "still have one more call later."

The win underneath the win. By month two Felipe was making more than double what his mentoring side-business pays him. His team's now leaning on him to help train the next intake. He's planning to quit his day job by December.

The boring truth. 48 calls. Same script most days. Some closes, some no-shows, some bad weeks. He had a week with zero closes in month one and posted in the group: "now I understand why the weak-minded don't thrive in this industry." Then he went back to the phone.

That's the real version. Not the Bali infinity pool. A guy on his laptop, taking calls, logging the data, getting better every week.

Here's what I want you to notice.

Felipe's not flashy. He's not posting Lambos. He's not "running an agency." He's a guy from LATAM who learned a skill and now closes calls into AU and US markets from his laptop.

This is the real version of what's possible. Not the Instagram fantasy. The actual day.

Tomorrow I'm going to show you exactly what skills you need to do this and how long it takes to learn each one.

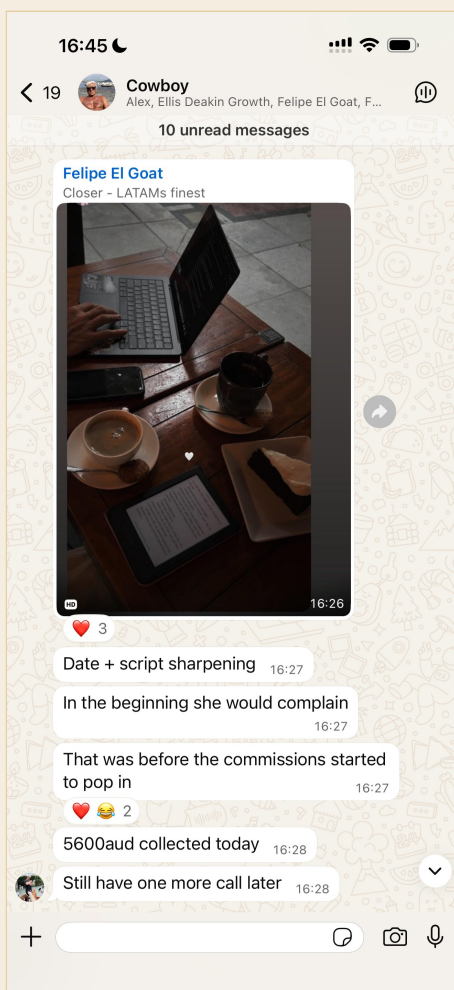

Action step today. Reply with this question: which part of Felipe's month do you actually want? The income, the location, the close rate, or all three? Be specific.

Connor

And here's the proof, posted in the team chat

Felipe Heberle. WhatsApp

$5,600 AUD COLLECTED TODAY

WHAT HAPPENED

Date plus script sharpening over coffee. Then $5,600 AUD collected before lunch. Still had one more call to take that afternoon.

The 5 skills (and how long each takes to learn)

You can do this in 90 days. Here's why.

Two days in. You've heard the structural problem (Day 1) and the real day-to-day (Day 2). Today's lesson is the practical one: what you actually need to learn, and how long it takes.

The job of a closer can be broken into 5 skills. Each one takes 2 to 3 weeks of focused work to get competent at, and 3 to 6 months to get great at. The cool thing is you start earning the moment you're competent, not great.

Skill 1: Discovery (2 weeks)

The art of asking questions that get someone to reveal their real pain. Not their surface complaint, the thing under it. Most people who try sales for the first time ask shit questions like "what's your biggest problem" and get shit answers. Discovery is learning to ask better.

The pattern: ask, listen, ask the deeper version of what they just said.

Skill 2: Listening (2 weeks)

Sounds easy. It's not. Most new closers talk 70% of the call. Top closers talk 30%. You have to learn to be comfortable with silence, and to actually hear what the prospect is saying, not just wait for your turn to speak. This skill alone separates the £3K closers from the £10K closers.

Skill 3: The Pitch (3 weeks)

Presenting the offer in a way that ties directly to what they just told you. Not reading a script. Translating. If they said "I want my time back," your pitch leads with how this gets them time back. If they said "I want £10K/month," your pitch leads with the income mechanism. This is mostly pattern recognition and it builds with reps.

Skill 4: Objection Handling (3 weeks)

There are only 7 main objections in high-ticket sales. Price. Timing. Partner. Job alternative. Skepticism. Not ready. Fear. You learn the responses to each one once, then refine them across 100+ calls. After 50 calls you'll have your own version of the framework that fits your voice.

Skill 5: Asking For The Money (2 weeks)

The hardest one. Most new closers freeze. The phrase "are you in?" feels uncomfortable to say in the first 20 calls. By call 50, it feels normal. By call 100, you wonder how anyone could be scared of it. It's a muscle, not a talent.

Total: roughly 12 weeks to competent. 6 months to great. 12 months to elite.

Compare that to:

- 4 years for a degree
- 3 to 5 years to become a senior tradesperson
- 5 to 10 years to start a business that actually pays well
- A lifetime to climb the corporate ladder

12 weeks to your first £5K month. 26 weeks to £10K. The math is wild.

Here's the catch. Reading this doesn't get you any closer. Reps do. You need an offer to close for, a script to follow, and 50+ calls in the first 30 days. That's the structure.

Tomorrow is the last lesson. I'll tell you exactly how to get all three of those structurally set up, and what the next move is if you actually want to do this.

Action step today. DM me the skill from the list above that you think will be hardest for you, and why. Self-awareness is half the work.

Connor

Final lesson. Here's the choice.

Three paths. Pick one.

Last lesson of the five-day.

If you've read the first four, you know:

- Day 1: I gave you the rule
- Day 2: I gave you the vehicle problem
- Day 3: I showed you a real day in the new vehicle
- Day 4: I broke down the 5 skills and the 90-day timeline

Today's lesson is the simple one. Three paths from here. Pick one.

Path 1. Do nothing.

You go back to work on Monday. The vehicle problem doesn't change. In 12 months you read this in your archive again and feel weird. In 5 years you're still in the same vehicle wondering what life would've looked like if you'd moved.

I'm not joking. This is the most common path. Most people who read this won't take action. The ones who do are the ones who hit £10K months. That's just the math of human behaviour.

If this is your path, no judgment. But move on so this doesn't haunt you.

Path 2. DIY it.

You go and do this on your own. Pick an offer. Build your own script. Cold DM 50 founders. Get hired somewhere. Start closing. Learn through trial and error.

It's possible. Some people do it. The downsides:

- Takes 6 to 12 months instead of 90 days (no script, no offer pre-vetted, no community, no review)
- You'll sign with a shit offer first and waste 60 days
- Your close rate stalls at 12 to 15% without a coach
- Most people quit by month 4

If you're going to do this path, fine. Use the free resources I post on Instagram. Don't quit.

Path 3. Get placed.

You apply for Cowboy Closers. If accepted, my team and I:

- Train you call-ready and help you land a vetted closer role

- Train you on the exact script you saw teased in this course
- Match you to a senior closer who reviews your calls weekly
- Drop you into a community of closers
- Hold you to your £5K → £10K → £15K month milestones

The cost is real. We don't charge tiny money. We start at £3,500 for the entry track and go to £11K for the elite track.

The reason we can guarantee that is because we've trained 100+ closers. We know the founders. They take our calls. They trust our closers. That's the moat.

If you're ready, the application is here: connorwestern.com/apply

Whatever path you pick, I appreciate you reading the five-day all the way through. That puts you in the top 5% of people who started it.

If you have one question before you decide, DM me on Instagram. I read every one.

If you're applying, the link is above.

If you're going DIY, follow me on Instagram and use the free playbook.

If you're doing nothing, all good, the door's open if you change your mind.

Either way, don't go back on the tools (or your laptop, or your shift) tomorrow and pretend you didn't read this.

Connor

The community, posting receipts

These are not testimonials I asked for. These are screenshots from the WhatsApp group and the Cowboy Closers community feed. Real names. Real numbers. Real wins.

Virginia McComish. Founding member

$41K CASH IN, SEPTEMBER

41k CASH IN

Share
...

Virginia McComish
Founding Member
20h

Member since August 18, 2025

Finished September in 2nd place for the company with 41k cash in ($8.2k in commissions). I actually couldn't believe it when I checked the leaderboard, since the the month before (August) I only brought 4.9k in for the month and was ranking last in t...

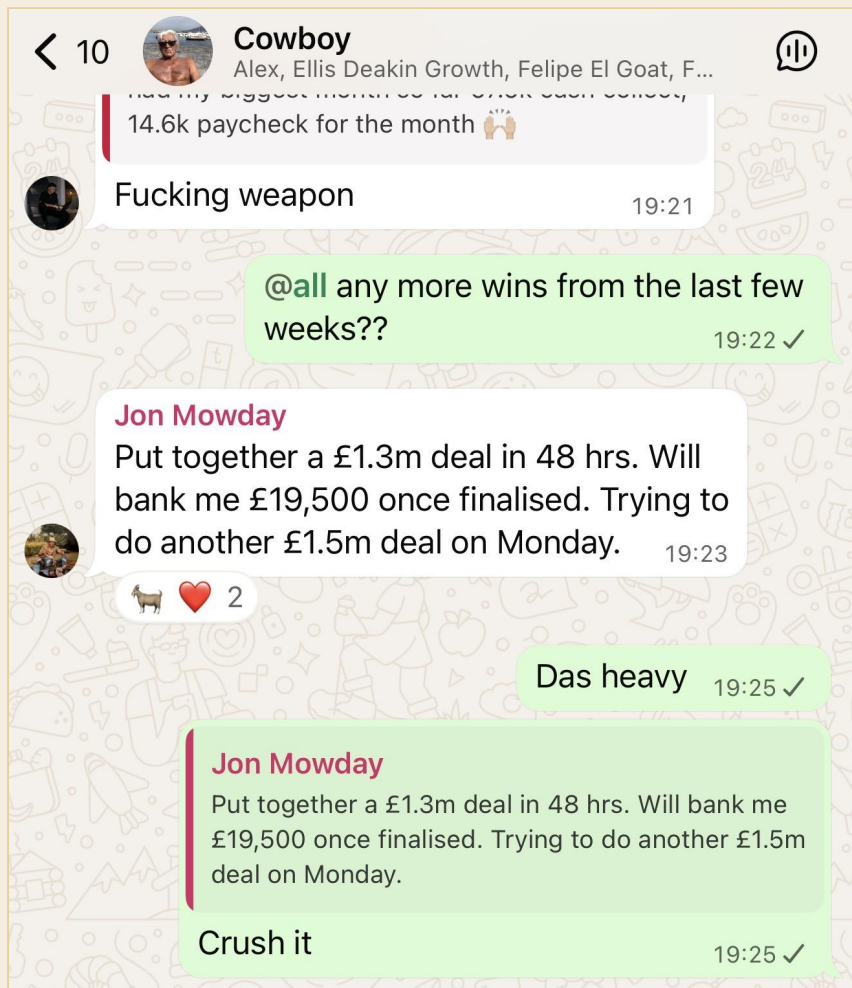

See more

#2	Virginia McComish	$4,900.00	$1,000.00	$2,800.00	$3,000.00	$2,800.00	$41,000.00
		$2,790.00
		$200.00
		$900.00	$2,500.00	$1,500.00	$1,125.00	$1,000.00
		$2,750.00		$1,300.00		$0,045.00
		$979.00
		$2,750.00
		$2,750.00

12 likes · 6 comments

WHAT HAPPENED

Finished September second on the company leaderboard with $41,000 cash in. $8,200 in commissions for the month. Came off August where she'd booked just $4,900 and was ranking last in the team. One month later, $41K.

WHAT HAPPENED

Put together a £1.3 million deal in 48 hours. Banked £19,500 commission once finalised. Working a £1.5m follow-up the next Monday. Biggest month so far: a £14,600 paycheck.

Closing role secured 🔥

Juno Stevens Founding Member 3d

Just secured my first full time closing gig in just over a week of being here. Honestly couldn't have done it without this community, the value this space holds is insane and I couldn't be in a better position to continue to grow and improve my closing. I cannot wait to absolutely smash this role and continue to grow and improve my skills, I know this is what I needed. Appreciate everyone I've rp with so far and can't wait to improve more and more. I'll see you all in Bali 🙏

I'm ready to fuckin eat ganggg this just the begging 🙏

16 likes · 3 comments

WHAT HAPPENED

First full-time closing gig secured in just over a week of joining the community. Heading to Bali.

And the wins keep landing

Alex Daniel

First closing role landed. AI agent company in luxury renovation. $8-10K price point, 8% commission, 4 calls booked on day one.

UK • CLOSER

Andreas Saris

First commission sales role with a holistic health company in Australia. Warm leads and email marketing tactics.

AU • CLOSER

Darian Owen

First role landed, appointment setter for a Texas tech company. Path to closer in 30-90 days.

AU • SETTER

Madeleine Perry

$6K AUD in deals this fortnight. Plus KPI bonus = just shy of $7K AUD in two weeks. NZ-based.

NZ • CLOSER

Zach S

Double Deal Friday. 4 calls, 2 deals, 50% close rate.

CLOSER

Zach Ford

$5K NZD paid in full, mid-week.

NZ • CLOSER

Jake Devereux

LinkedIn outreach paying off. Stopped getting shitty recruitment messages, now getting real closer roles in his DMs.

UK • CLOSER

Reece Rogan

The Irish Sales Savage. Goes off-grid for months and drops back in closing £20K deals.

UK • CLOSER

WHERE TO FROM HERE

Three paths. Pick one.

You've read the five-day. That puts you in the top five percent of people who started it. Whatever path you pick, don't go back to your day tomorrow and pretend you didn't read this.

PATH 01 Do nothing

Go back to work on Monday. Read this archive again in 12 months and feel weird. Most people pick this path. No judgment, but unsubscribe so the emails don't haunt you.

PATH 02 DIY

Use the free playbook on Instagram. Pick an offer. Cold DM 50 founders. Learn through trial and error. Slower but free.

instagram.com/connorwestern_

PATH 03 Apply

Apply to Cowboy Closers. We train you call-ready and help you land your first vetted role. Investment starts at £3,500 for the entry track and goes to £11K for the elite track.

apply.cowboyclosers.com

Connor