

VOL. I · ISSUE 02 · SCRIPT EDITION

THE SCRIPT EDITION · A CLOSER'S FIELD MANUAL

The Cowboy Close

The 7-step framework Connor and the team use to close £6K to £15K deals on the phone. Including the 7 objections you'll hear most and the lines that flip them.

Connor Western

The Wolf of South East Asia
Founder, Cowboy Closers

IF THIS RESONATES

If you read this and feel something click, the kind of click that says this is the move, apply to work with us at apply.cowboyclosers.com. We'll see if you're a fit, and if you are, we'll show you exactly how the rest of it works.

WHY THIS SCRIPT WORKS

Most sales scripts you've seen online are written by people who don't sell.

They're full of NLP tricks, weird hypnotic language, and lines that sound like you're reading from a teleprompter. Prospects can smell it in 30 seconds.

This script is different for one reason. It comes from real calls. We pulled the closing frame from 1,400+ Fathom recordings inside Cowboy Closers. We tracked which lines led to closes and which ones led to "let me think about it." We kept the ones that work. We binned the rest.

It's not magic. It's not manipulation. It's a sequence that makes the prospect feel heard, makes the offer feel inevitable, and makes the price feel cheap relative to the cost of doing nothing.

You can use it tomorrow.

THE 7 STEPS

1. The Frame
2. The Snapshot
3. The Gap
4. The Cost
5. The Bridge
6. The Ask
7. The Handle

Each step has a job. If you skip one, the close gets harder. If you nail all seven, the close gets easier than you thought possible.

01

The Frame

You set the rules of the call in the first 90 seconds. If you don't, the prospect does, and they always set rules that don't lead to a sale.

Say this. Word for word.

SAY THIS

"Hey [name], [your name] here. How's your day going, mate?"

[Let them answer. 10 seconds max. Don't go too deep on chit-chat.]

SAY THIS

"Cool. So here's how this call's going to go. I've got about 30 minutes for you. I want to spend the first 15 understanding where you're at, what you're trying to build, and where you're stuck. Then in the back half I'll show you what we do and we'll figure out together if it's the right fit. Sound good?"

[Wait for a yes.]

SAY THIS

"Just one thing before we kick off. By the end of the call I'm going to give you a clear answer one way or the other. If it's not a fit, I'll tell you and we'll part as mates. If it is a fit, I'll show you how to get started today. The one thing I'd ask is no maybes. Maybes don't help either of us. You good with that?"

[Wait for a yes.]

Why it works. You've taken control. You've installed a binary outcome. You've eliminated "let me think about it" before it can happen. 80% of new closers skip this and pay for it at the end.

02

The Snapshot

Your job here is to get them talking. The more they talk, the more they sell themselves.

Open with this.

SAY THIS

"So tell me where you're at right now. What does your day to day look like, what are you currently doing for work, and what made you book this call?"

[Shut up. Take notes. Don't interrupt for the first 90 seconds of their answer.]

Follow-up questions in this order.

- "How long have you been doing that?"
- "What's the income looking like at the minute?"
- "And what does a typical week look like, hours-wise?"
- "Is there any part of it you actually love, or is it just paying the bills?"

By minute 7 you should know: their job, income, hours, lifestyle, and how much they hate or tolerate it.

Why it works. You're not pitching yet. You're learning. The data you gather here is the ammunition you'll use in step 5.

03

The Gap

Now you find the gap between where they are and where they want to be. The gap is where the sale lives.

Ask this exactly.

SAY THIS

"OK so that's where you're at. If we fast-forward 12 months and we're on a call this same time next year, and you're telling me 'mate, the last year has been the best year of my life,' what would have happened?"

[They'll talk for 1-3 minutes. Let them.]

Then this.

SAY THIS

"Cool. And what's stopping you from having that already? Like, what's the actual block?"

[They'll usually say one of three things: skills, money, time. Note which one. It matters for the close.]

Then this.

SAY THIS

"If nothing changes in the next 12 months, where do you reckon you'll be?"

[This is the most important question on the call. You're getting them to feel the cost of doing nothing.]

Why it works. You've now created three reference points in their mind. Where they are. Where they want to be. Where they'll be if they do nothing. The offer becomes the bridge between point 1 and point 2.

04

The Cost

This is the most uncomfortable part of the call. Most new closers rush through it. Don't.

Say this.

SAY THIS

"Let me ask you something direct. You said you'd be in [bad place X] in 12 months if nothing changes. What's that actually costing you? Like, properly costing you, not just in money but in time, energy, missing out on stuff?"

[Let them talk. If they go shallow, push.]

SAY THIS

"Yeah, I get that. But honestly, what's it costing you with your missus / your family / your body / your headspace?"

[This is where the emotional shift happens. If they go quiet, that's good. They're feeling it.]

Why it works. Cost of inaction is the strongest motivator in sales. People buy to escape pain faster than they buy to gain pleasure. You're not creating pain. You're surfacing pain that's already there.

05

The Bridge

Now you present. Not before. The presentation has to tie directly to what they just told you.

Say this.

SAY THIS

"OK so I've got a clear picture. You're at [their current situation]. You want to be at [their goal]. And the cost of staying where you are is [their pain]. The work I do is built for exactly this. Can I walk you through it?"

[Wait for yes.]

Now present. Three rules.

1. Keep it under 5 minutes. Anything longer and they zone out.
2. Tie every feature to a benefit they already mentioned. "You said you wanted your time back. That's why we built X."
3. End every section with "does that make sense" and wait for a yes.

Close the presentation with this.

SAY THIS

"That's the work. The question for you is: does this look like the thing that gets you from [where you are] to [where you want to be]?"

[Wait. Don't fill the silence.]

Why it works. You're not selling. You're confirming. The presentation is a mirror of the conversation they just had with you. They can't object to their own words.

06

The Ask

This is where 80% of new closers freeze. Don't.

Say this exactly.

SAY THIS

"Cool. So the way we work is [program structure in one sentence]. The investment for that is [price]. Are you in?"

[Stop talking. Do not say another word until they speak. If you have to wait 30 seconds, wait 30 seconds.]

Why it works. Direct, confident, no waffle. Most new closers add a justification after the price. "It's £6,500 but you can pay in three." Stop. The price is the price. Let them respond.

07

The Handle

When you ask, one of three things happens.

A. They say yes. Move to onboarding. Don't oversell. Just take the deposit.

B. They go quiet or say "let me think." Use the universal handle (below).

C. They give a specific objection. Use the objection handlers (next 3 pages).

The Universal Handle

SAY THIS

"I appreciate that. Before you go think about it, can I ask you one thing? What specifically would you be thinking about? Because if I can answer it now, I'd rather not leave you sitting on a question for a week."

[They'll either give you the real objection now or admit they're stalling. Both are fine.]

THE 7 OBJECTIONS AND HOW TO FLIP THEM

OBJECTION → "I don't have the money right now."

THE HANDLE

Yeah, I get that. Most of the people I work with weren't sitting on the money when they joined either. The question isn't really 'do you have it,' it's 'is this worth finding it for.' If I told you I could guarantee you'd make the investment back in 90 days, would you find it?

OBJECTION → "Let me think about it."

THE HANDLE

Sure. What's the bit you need to think about? Because if you're 100% on the path but unsure on the price, that's one conversation. If you're unsure on the path, that's a different conversation. Which one is it?

OBJECTION → "I need to talk to my partner."

THE HANDLE

Of course. Quick question though. Is your partner going to know more about this than you after a 5 minute conversation? Or are they going to ask you 'is this what you want' and back your call? Because if it's the second, we can solve this on the call.

OBJECTION → "Let me try applying for jobs first."

THE HANDLE

Yeah, you can. How long have you been planning to do that? [Most say weeks or months.] And how many applications have you actually sent? [Usually zero or a handful.] The reason I ask is the people who get hired fastest are the people with a system. That's what we sell. If you spend 8 weeks applying on your own and get nothing, you've lost 8 weeks. If you join us, you'd be placed in 4.

OBJECTION → "I'm skeptical of online programs."

THE HANDLE

Good. So am I. There's a lot of garbage out there. What specifically have you seen before that's burned you? [Let them answer.] OK so here's the difference. We don't sell a course. We place you into a closer role. You don't pay us to consume content. You pay us to put you in the room. That's why we have a guarantee.

OBJECTION → "I'm not ready / I need to figure things out first."

THE HANDLE

What does 'ready' look like? [Let them answer.] The reason I ask is most people who say they're not ready are waiting for a feeling. The feeling doesn't come before action. It comes after. The blokes I work with weren't ready either. They just moved.

OBJECTION → "I'm scared of sales."

THE HANDLE

What about it? [Let them answer.] Sales is just having a conversation about whether you can help someone. If you've ever convinced a mate to come to the pub or convinced your missus to watch a movie she didn't want to watch, you've sold. The skill is the same. The stakes are just higher and the pay is better." ---

THE TONE RULES

The script only works if your tone matches it.

- Speak slower than you think you should. The best closers are 20% slower than nervous closers.
- Smile when you talk. Yes even on a phone call. They hear it.
- Lower your voice at the end of sentences, not raise it. Raising your voice at the end makes you sound unsure.
- Pause for 2 to 3 seconds after asking a hard question. Most closers can't handle the silence. Train yourself to handle it.
- Mirror their energy. If they're chill, be chill. If they're fired up, match it.

WHAT TO DO NEXT

If you want to actually use this script in your own closing role, you need three things.

One. An offer to close for. This script works for any high-ticket offer in the £3K to £15K range. If you don't have one, get one. (Cowboy Closers trains you and helps you land a vetted offer.)

Two. Reps. Read this script out loud 30 times before your first call. Record yourself. Listen back. It will be cringe. Do it anyway.

Three. Feedback. Get a coach or peer reviewing your calls weekly. Self-review is good. Outside review is better.

If you want all three handled for you, the next step is connorwestern.com/apply.

If you want to try this on your own first, that's also fine. Don't tell me about it 6 months from now when you're still stuck.

Connor

WHERE TO FROM HERE

Now go use it.

The script works because it came from real calls. But reading it doesn't close anyone. Reps do. Three ways to put this to work this week.

PATH 01 An offer

This script works for any high-ticket offer in the £3K to £15K range. Don't have one yet? Cowboy Closers trains you and helps you land one.

apply.cowboyclosers.com

PATH 02 Reps

Read this script out loud 30 times before your first call. Record yourself. Listen back. It will be cringe. Do it anyway.

PATH 03 Feedback

Self-review is good. Outside review is better. Inside the community you get weekly call breakdowns from senior closers.

connorwestern.com/community

Connor